MEDIA RELEASE

CAPILANO FACTORY FIRE

There was a fire on the Capilano premises today in Richlands, Brisbane, Queensland. Thankfully the main factory building where decanting, production of bottles and packing of honey was not affected. The fire took place in a corner of the property and has damaged one of our secondary honey holding and decanting sheds.

The buildings were effectively evacuated following alarm and there have been no injuries reported.

Whilst there has been a loss of some stored honey and damage to buildings, Capilano's main honey stocks and ability to process and pack honey remains.

Capilano maintains a second plant in Maryborough, Victoria as a backup for such an emergency and also maintains comprehensive insurance including loss of profit insurance.

Capilano wishes to thank the Queensland Fire and Rescue Service for their speedy arrival and quick containment of the fire. Fire Investigation teams remain on-site as the area is monitored over the next 24 hours.
