Orient today announced that its majority owned subsidiary Orient (Tianjin) Corrosion Engineering has received initial prepayments for works to be undertaken in China in the order of $AU 500,000.

Managing Director Graham Roach, currently in China said, "We are delighted with the performance of O(T)CE in the December quarter and congratulate the team in Tianjin on securing the contracts, successfully negotiating the terms and conditions and ensuring that our expectations regarding security of payments are met.

The receipt of these payments goes a long way towards demonstrating the strength of our commercial relationships and the value of our development work over the 2006 year.

Orient provides specialist corrosion protection and prevention services to industry and is building a strong name and reputation in China.

ORH continues to pursue a growth strategy, and is focusing on fast moving economies in China, Middle East and North Africa.

The Company also considers growth by acquisition as a legitimate strategy to complement its business plan.
