Emerging gold producer Adamus Resources Limited (ASX: ADU) (Adamus or the Company) is pleased to announce the appointments of:

- Mr Jeremy Langford - Project Manager, Construction
- Mr Craig Wilson - Project Manager, Infrastructure

to the Adamus Management Team. Both Jeremy and Craig bring extensive project development experience to the Company and will broaden Adamus' existing skill base for the commencement of construction of the Southern Ashanti Gold Project (Southern Ashanti) anticipated before year-end.

Mr Jeremy Langford is a Mechanical Engineer with previous mining experience in West Africa. Mr Craig Wilson is a Mining Engineer with immediate previous Project Management experience in Ghana. Craig managed and wrote the Detailed Feasibility Study and executed the construction of the nearby Hwini Butre & Benso Projects, which included design and construction of infrastructure, open pits, 80 kilometres of haul road and evaluating ore haulage systems and pit reserving for that operation. Prior to this Craig was responsible for all major construction projects on site including tailings dam lifts, airstrip relocation, road construction, etc for the Gieta Gold Mine in Tanzania.

Adamus' Managing Director, Mark Bojanjac said that "these high-level project management appointments provide the Company with the accomplished West African expertise required within Adamus to manage the build of our project."

"Following on from the recent addition of the former Head of AngloGold Ashanti Australia, Mr Peter Rowe, to the Board, these appointments are pivotal to developing the Southern Ashanti into a 100,000+oz pa operation with a mine life of 10 years by 2011."

"Operations management appointments are also in advanced discussions" Mr Bojanjac added.
