New Myer store for Darwin

Myer Holdings Limited (MYR) today announced plans to build a new store in Darwin, Northern Territory.

The new Myer Darwin will be a two-level 12,000 square metre store featuring a large range of apparel, cosmetics, homewares and electrical merchandise.

Myer Chief Executive Officer, Bernie Brookes, said that the new store would be the first full-line department store in Darwin and delivered an opportunity for Myer to reach a significant growth area and a new customer base in the north of Australia.

"As we optimise our store network across the country, Darwin is the ideal location for a new store, and will expand our customer base and footprint into the Northern Territory for the first time. Darwin is a region of significant economic growth and the community support for the addition of a Myer store has been tremendous," Mr Brookes said.

"The store will be in an ideal location for us. Casuarina Square is already a well-established centre that has a strong customer offer including specialty retail, supermarkets, discount department stores and a cinema. We believe the addition of a full-line Myer store will further strengthen the customer proposition.

"We are delighted to have reached an agreement with GPT Group to be a part of their proposed expansion of the Casuarina Square Shopping Centre. We also welcome the Territory Government's willingness to work towards integrating public transport into the development.

"As we build on the success of our new Mackay store in Queensland, we are looking forward to the opening of our next two new stores at Fountain Gate (Victoria) in September and Townsville (Queensland) in October this year.

"Our national store network and strong Myer brand provide a unique advantage in supporting our omnichannel strategy. While we continue to be committed to a program of new stores and refurbishments, we are also seeking to maximise the productivity of floor space in all of our stores," he said.

The expected completion date and opening of the Myer Darwin store is 2016, subject to authority approvals and meeting other project milestones.
