COMPANY ANNOUNCEMENT
30 August, 2013

Fatality prosecution

Nufarm Australia Limited, a wholly owned entity of Nufarm Limited, was today fined $300,000 in the Victorian County Court in connection to a fatality that occurred at the company's Laverton North manufacturing facility in May 2011.

Steve Turnbull tragically died after being exposed to phenolic liquors while carrying out maintenance work. Steve was a highly respected member of the Nufarm family and his loss has been shared by all those who worked with him.

Following an investigation by WorkSafe Victoria, Nufarm was charged with failing to provide supervision necessary to perform work safely, according to s 21(2)(e) of the Occupational Health and Safety Act.

Nufarm remains committed to continually improving safety performance across the business with the objective of ensuring that our people return home safely at the end of every day.
