UGL Managing Director and CEO succession

Sydney: UGL Limited (ASX: UGL) today announced the appointment of Ross Taylor as Managing Director and CEO of UGL Limited effective 24 November 2014.

Ross has over 30 years of experience in the construction, engineering and real estate industries in Australia and internationally. Prior to joining UGL, Ross held the position of Group CEO at Tenix, a privately held engineering and construction company delivering services in the gas, electricity, water, wastewater, heavy industrial and mining sectors across Australasia. During his tenure at Tenix, Ross successfully implemented and delivered a five year operational turnaround and strategic plan, generating strong profitable growth for the business with a commitment to safe and sustainable business practices.

Over a period of 24 years, Ross held various senior roles at Lend Lease Corporation, most recently as the former Group Chief Operating Officer. In this role, Ross held line responsibility for all operating businesses around the world, reporting to the Group CEO, and was a Lend Lease Board director and member of the Executive Office. He also held significant senior executive roles during his longstanding career at Lend Lease including Global CEO Property Development, CEO Australia and Asia and Global CEO Construction.

UGL Chairman, Trevor C. Rowe AO said: "The Board is delighted to confirm Ross Taylor's appointment as incoming Managing Director and CEO of UGL Limited. Ross has significant Australian and international operational experience across the real estate, construction and engineering industries. Combined with his leadership experience at Tenix, Ross brings a strong understanding of UGL's Engineering business and the needs of our clients across our end-to-end delivery model, from engineering projects to operations and maintenance.

"Ross has extensive experience in driving operational performance, creating value for both shareholders and clients. The Board believes this focus will strongly position UGL's Engineering business as a market leader as the infrastructure investment cycle improves in the medium term with a number of significant opportunities across the rail, power and transport systems sectors emerging," Mr Rowe said.

Current Managing Director and CEO, Richard Leupen, will work with the Board to ensure an orderly transition in leadership prior to Ross Taylor's commencement date.

Trevor C. Rowe said: "On behalf of the Board and UGL's many employees, I would like to thank Richard Leupen for his outstanding contribution over the last fourteen years in transforming UGL from a small Western Australian resources construction business with approximately $650 million in revenue to a diverse, multinational outsourced services company with over $4.3 billion in revenue, operating across 52 countries with 52,000 people worldwide. During Richard's leadership, UGL has grown to become a global leader in property services through DTZ as well as a market leader in engineering, construction and maintenance services in Australia, New Zealand and Asia.

"During his longstanding tenure at UGL, Richard Leupen's achievements have been remarkable amongst Australian business leaders and we wish Richard all the best with his future endeavours," Mr Rowe concluded.

Ross Taylor is a Civil Engineer with a Bachelor of Engineering (Honours I) from the University of Queensland. He has also completed executive development programs at various international business schools including IMD, London Business School and Mt Eliza.

The key terms of Ross Taylor's appointment are set out in the Appendix.
