Metallica CEO, Mr Simon Slesarewich:

"Metallica is delighted to be able to enter into this farm-in and joint venture with Australian Mines. Australian Mines has identified SCONI as an advanced project that is capable of being developed in the medium term and realises the significant intrinsic value and investment that Metallica has expended in developing the project thus far. This joint venture allows Metallica to preserve that investment, as SCONI is progressed by Australian Mines, whilst Metallica continues to progress its north Queensland Urquhart bauxite project to production in the first half of 2017."
