Australian technology company, BidEnergy Limited (ASX: BID) ("Bid" or "the Company") is pleased to announce an agreement to provide invoice review and reporting services for the supply of natural gas to New South Wales (NSW) government organisation, NSW Procurement - its first Government contract.

BidEnergy is currently a prequalified supplier on the NSW Government's Performance and Management Services Scheme (Easy Access Registration List). This is BidEnergy's first engagement via the scheme.

BidEnergy's innovative platform gives small to large enterprises with hundreds to thousands of sites control over their energy spend, from advanced sourcing to billing and accounts payable. Under the 12-month agreement, BidEnergy's platform will be utilised to automatically capture invoices for all of NSW Procurement's small sites contract gas accounts including a number of government sites, and providing monthly reporting to NSW Procurement on invoice issues and cost reduction opportunities.

"We are very pleased to have secured our first government contract with NSW Procurement. Government is a new frontier for BidEnergy and a huge opportunity for our business. We are seeing a global drive among governments to reduce the cost of service delivery using the cloud. BidEnergy is well positioned to deliver a level of control on governments' energy spend," said BidEnergy Managing Director, Stuart Allinson.
