Update to Trading Halt on Thursday 25 March 1999

Screen Dealing Bulletin No. 5/99 gave details of systems problems experienced on 25 March 1999 which caused the market to be halted. That Bulletin also noted that every effort would be made to identify and rectify the cause of this problem which was initially classified incorrectly as a "degenerative software problem".

Efforts by the Exchange and its software developers have now identified the problem to be hardware related following the failure of a hard disk controller. This hardware has now been replaced.
