About Asian American Medical Group

Asian American Medical Group (“AAMG”) is based on Singapore and has been listed on the Australian Securities Exchange since September 2009. The Group’s operations include the Asian Centre for Liver Diseases and Transplantation (“ACLDT”), established in 1994 in Singapore, and the Asian Centre for Blood and Bone Marrow Transplantation (“ACBBMT”).

ACLDT is regarded as one of Asia’s foremost Liver Centres with out-patient facilities as well as a dedicated in-patient Liver Ward and Intensive Care Unit to complement its highly successful Living Donor Liver Transplantation (LDLT) Programme. It is led by renowned hepatobiliary expert and liver transplant surgeon, Dr Tan Kai Chah (Dr K C Tan), who helped start the Liver Transplant Programme at the King’s College Hospital London, the UK. Dr Tan performed many pioneering operations in the UK including the first ‘split-liver’ transplant, first auxiliary liver graft and completed a pilot study of living donor liver transplantation.

ACLDT is the first private medical centre in South-east Asia to have performed more than 200 living donor liver transplants. On average, ACLDT treats 8,000 patients a year, of which over 90% are international patients from South-east Asia, South Asia, Indochina, the Middle East and Russia.

Launched in April 2013, ACBBMT offers Haematopoietic Stem Cell Transplant Programme and other blood related diseases. It is headed by the only transplant physician in the Asia-pacific region with specific training in haematopoietic cell transplantation for immunological diseases, Dr Yvonne Loh.

AAMG is collaborating with The University of Pittsburgh Medical Center (“UPMC”) to develop Asia’s first Comprehensive Transplant Centre (CTC) to offer quality treatment and transplantation for various diseases related to liver, kidney, blood and bone marrow.

Currently, AAMG has presence in Vietnam through a specialist liver centre in Ho Chi Minh City established in September 2010. In addition, it will also offer liver surgery for the first time outside Singapore, through its upcoming liver centre in Hanoi.
