- Agreement represents Animoca Brand's ability to partner with leading Chinese companies as it continues to expand its distribution channels in the world's largest and fastest-growing mobile market
- Expansion of distribution channels continues to drive user acquisition and revenue

Hong Kong – 3 February 2016, Animoca Brands (ASX: AB1 or the "Company") today announces Xiaomi has published a localised version of the popular mobile game Garfield Chef throughout China, which garnered over 1.5 million downloads in its first month on Xiaomi's App Store.

Xiaomi is the number one smartphone maker in China, and a market leading electronics company that designs, develops and sells mobile apps, smartphones and related consumer products. Xiaomi has dominant market share in the Chinese mobile market, and posted net revenue of US$12bn in 2014. In 2015 it sold 61 million handsets, cementing its leadership in China.

As part of the agreement, Xiaomi has exclusive rights to publish the Garfield Chef gaming app in China on both the Apple® and Android™ mobile platforms. With over 900 million smartphones estimated in circulation (source: GSMA Intelligence Q1 2015), the Chinese market is a significant opportunity for Animoca Brands.

Xiaomi will increase Animoca Brands' access to the fast-growing market in China as it distributes the Garfield Chef app across the users of Xiaomi mobile operating systems, used by over 150 million users worldwide. Globally, Xiaomi is the world's fourth largest smartphone maker, with a 5% total market share (IDC).

The Android version of Garfield Chef went live on Xiaomi's App Store on 16 December 2015, and Xiaomi expects to launch the iPhone® and iPad® version on 4 February 2016.

The agreement with Xiaomi further demonstrates Animoca Brands' ability to grow its distribution channels and market share in Asia and internationally by partnering with powerful industry leaders. As the Company continues to expand its distribution channels, its user growth increases, leading to growth in revenue from in-app purchases and advertising.
