Zyber signs key partnership agreement with Redcore to build next-generation secure file sharing platform

Zyber Holdings Limited (ASX: ZYB) ('Zyber' or 'the Company'), a leading provider of secure file sharing software, has secured a partnership agreement with one of Australia's most respected cyber security companies, Redcore Pty Ltd (Redcore), to bring its unique secure file sharing solution to market.

The partnership is expected to reduce development time by 30% and will ensure that Zyber's platform, which gives companies control over sensitive information on file sharing apps, will be ready for its expected commercial launch in the current fiscal year.

The agreement comes after a global search by Zyber for a partner with proven cyber security skills in the areas of cryptography, identity management and cloud managed services to assist in the development of Zyber's next generation file sharing platform.

Clay Epstein, Zyber CEO was impressed with the technical expertise of Redcore, their exceptional delivery history and heritage in the Asia-Pacific (APAC) region.

"We're delighted to be partnering with Redcore in Australia as they're seen as the premier cyber security company in the APAC region. Redcore will build a new, enterprise secure file sharing and management solution for Zyber that is expected to enable organisations, large and small, to operate securely and more efficiently while enhancing the end user experience," said Mr. Epstein.

Redcore founder and co-owner Joseph Failla said, "We are very excited about the opportunity to work with Zyber on developing the next generation of their secure file sharing platform. Zyber's vision and analysis of the existing file sharing products vulnerabilities opens the door to a new and better approach to secure information exchange."

Both companies expect development to commence Q1 of 2016.
