New hire to drive relationships with higher value customers, managed services

The Board of Search Party Group Ltd (ASX:SP1) is pleased to announce the addition of Ben Evans, a seasoned Recruitment Process Outsourcing (RPO) professional to its Sydney team. Ben's appointment underpins our plan to expand our customer base beyond the current small business (SMB) target into larger companies and enterprises.

"We're thrilled to welcome Ben Evans to our team and leverage his strengths provide new recruitment solutions for larger customers," Ben Hutt, CEO and Managing Director of Search Party, said. "His experience rounds out our sales capability and will be instrumental in our growth for 2017 and beyond."

Ben Evans' 20 year career encompasses all aspects of the workforce supply chain including recruitment, outsourced contractor engagement, RPO and Managed Services provision as well as buyer side consulting, solution design and program governance. This uniquely experienced profile enables him to understand the complexities of designing and delivering managed recruitment programs in response to the world's changing workforce dynamic.

In early 2011, Ben Evans sold his first consultancy, Contingent Outcomes, to HRX. In 2014 Brightfield Strategies, a New York based Management Consulting firm acquired Evawell Consulting, Ben Evans' second consultancy focusing on designing and delivering managed workforce solutions to clients across the Asia pacific region.

Ben's role at Search Party is Head of Workforce Solutions in Australia. He will be responsible for the continued global evolution of sales at Search Party, business development and delivery of bespoke managed workforce solutions to Search Party's global clients.

"The opportunity to come and work with the outstanding team at Search Party is really exciting," Evans said. "The relevance of the solution Search Party is bringing to market is
