Yonder & Beyond Group Limited (ASX:YNB) is pleased to announce Boppl has sent over $500,000 in orders to its Brisbane venues. After a period of rapid growth in 2016, Boppl has over 15,000 active users, with over 94% as repeat and paying customers.

This milestone in transaction volume indicates the popularity of Boppl at local Australian businesses, particularly those in Brisbane. Boppl is the leading mobile payment platform in Brisbane, with growing popularity and users in other cities, such as Sydney and Melbourne.

The company has added new venues to its growing list, including Pomeroy Coffee Roasters, Little Birdee in Virgin Australia's Head Office in Brisbane and Nudo Café in Sydney, which is co-owned by Sean and Bianca Cahill with Socceroo Tim Cahill. Boppl chain, Acai Brothers has launched in new locations including Bondi, Fremantle and Croydon and welcomes Brisbane based hospitality group Venzin Group with the upcoming launch of both iOS and Android applications powered by Boppl across the group's five venues.

Boppl has also commenced integration with POS and payment provider, Square. Based in Silicon Valley, Square is a leading payment platform and has chosen Boppl as one its flagship mobile ordering products. Twitter CEO and Co-Founder, Jack Dorsey, is also CEO and Co-Founder of Square and has led its expansion to its new territories, including Australia.

Yonder & Beyond CEO, Shashi Fernando said, "After focusing on its customer deployment strategy in 2016, Boppl is now used daily by thousands of people. We look forward to further growing Boppl across Australia with its strategic partnerships and deployment in chains."

Boppl continues to access joint venture opportunities which add revenue to the company and subsequent revenue to the underlying business. The company will focus on its hospitality chain expansion plan to further accelerate its exciting growth in 2017.
