Scout presents its connected home security range at CES 2018

Home security provider Scout Security Limited ((ASX: SCT), “Scout” or “the Company”) is pleased to announce that the Company’s co-founders, CEO Dan Roberts and CTO Dave Shapiro, will represent Scout at the 2018 CES consumer electronics trade show.

Running in Las Vegas, Nevada from Monday 8 January until Friday 12 January, CES is the world’s gathering place for all those who thrive on the business of consumer technologies. At CES 2017, more than 184,000 attendees met over 4,000 exhibiting companies.

CES has served as the proving ground for innovators and breakthrough technologies for 50 years — the global stage where next-generation innovations are introduced to the marketplace.

As such, CES represents the ideal platform for Scout to introduce new investors and industry channel partners to its value proposition at the intersection of DIY security and the Internet of Things (IoT) — two markets for which significant growth is projected.

At CES, Scout will present its range of connected home security products in partner meetings for the duration of the show.

The Company will be pleased to showcase and introduce Scout’s platform and product suite to customers, investors and industry stakeholders attending CES. To arrange a personal meeting with Scout at CES, please contact info@scoutalarm.com.
