TikForce Limited (ASX: TKF, ‘the Company or TikForce’) is pleased to advise that the Company has entered into a Corporate Partnership with National Disability Practitioners. National Disability Practitioners (NDP) is a division of peak industry body, National Disability Services (NDS).

Launched in December 2014, NDP is a leading association for disability practitioners, with a current community of more than 14,000 members. The Company entered into discussions with NDP, following the recent Corporate Partnership agreement with NDS.

The TikForce Platform will provide disability practitioners with a credential vault to maintain all statutory documentation, along with verified identification and learning achievements.

Credentials are verified through a range of automated processes, delivering fast and readily accessible results.

The NDP agreement contemplates a similar offering of credential verification for practitioners of the disability sector but will include the capability for practitioners to manage and share their ongoing learning and credentials.

This agreement with TikForce provides NDP enhanced capabilities to provide an NDP led Continuing Professional Development (CPD) program. The TikForce platform will be offered to all NDP members and participants in the CPD program and will allow practitioners to integrate their CPD learning and credential checks into one place. The initiative empowers disability practitioners to collect, maintain and collate their credentials and learning achievements and share them with their employers.

TikForce Managing Director Kevin Baum commented – “I am very happy to be extending our partnership to NDP. The Company can provide a simple solution for the both organisations and practitioners to confidently demonstrate a compliant workforce that is ready to tackle the challenges of the unprecedented NDIS rollout. A workforce that will increase safety, quality and transparency. A great and necessary outcome for workers and NDIS clients.”

NDP Executive Officer, Belinda Allen, commented “NDP is committed to promoting best practice and is pleased to be partnering with TikForce, providing a platform that allows practitioners to share and maintain their achievements and checks with employers.”
