DigitalX appointed Blockchain Consultant to Transcendence Technologies Limited

Perth, 26 February 2018: DigitalX Ltd (ASX:DCC) has been appointed Blockchain Consultant to Perth-based software and data management company Transcendence Technologies Limited (ASX:TTL).

DigitalX will review the company's current product offerings and provide Blockchain consulting services to the board and management of TTL. DigitalX will then commence a process in exploring how distributed ledger technology could be integrated into TTL's current business model.

"Blockchain technologies for data management and compliance are becoming integral in the next generation of cloud-based eCommerce software solutions," said DigitalX CEO Leigh Travers.

Transcendence Technologies Limited (TTL) is a listed tech-company that operates the E-Collate data management and compliance software platform, as well as a collaboration with PrimeXConnect, for the management of wholesale trading and supply chain for meat products.

"Blockchain technology could help producers, sellers and consumers follow meat products in transit from paddock to plate, by tracking measurements such as temperature and pressure of the meat products to ensure quality," said Mr Travers.

There are also Blockchain applications that could be integrated into the E-Collate platform, including decentralised cloud Database-as-a-Service (DBaaS) - providing an on-demand, scalable and highly secure service for data storage and management via the Blockchain.

"DigitalX will provide Blockchain consulting services and business development introductions for TTL to explore Blockchain solutions that will best suit their business," said Mr Travers.

Blockchain Consulting Services have been expanded to offer ASX-listed companies blockchain consulting services to enhance their business offerings. "We see a role for DigitalX in connecting new technology with Australian businesses looking to explore Blockchain applications," said Mr Travers.
