Scout named 2018 Best DIY Home Security System

Highlights:

- Scout named Best DIY Home Security of 2018 by TopTenReviews.com
- Top rating across Security & Monitoring, Set-Up & Equipment, Add-On Equipment and Warranty & Support categories
- System “exceeded expectations” for user-friendliness, ease of installation and practical features

Home security provider Scout Security Limited ((ASX: SCT), “Scout” or “the Company”) is pleased to announce it has been named the Best Overall DIY Home Security System of 2018 by leading reviews website TopTenReviews.com.

In winning the award, Scout’s system rated highest across categories including Security & Monitoring, Set-Up & Equipment, Add-On Equipment and Warranty & Support, with an overall rating of 9.2 points out of 10 points.

TopTenReviews.com said:

“The best DIY home security systems bring user-friendliness, easy installation and practical features into a single package. During our testing, we found that Scout Alarm meets most of these expectations and exceeds others.

“It doesn’t clutter your home with tons of equipment but sticks to the basics such as entry sensors and optional professional monitoring. While Scout Alarm requires a monthly fee to help pay for server maintenance and customer support, there’s no contract commitment so you only pay for service when you need it.”

The review further praised the Scout system’s ease of installation, app user experience design and integration with smart home devices from Amazon and Nest.

Scout Security co-founder and CEO Dan Roberts said it was a major win for the Company.

"We are really pleased to have received this recognition that has rated us above many of our industry peers," he said.

News of the win coincided with the Company's participation at the ISC West security industry trade fair in Las Vegas, Nevada from 10 – 13 April 2018.

ISC West is the largest security industry trade fair in the US, and the Company is pleased to report that it has bolstered its business development pipeline and fueled industry interest following positive meetings with existing and potential channel partners and resellers.
