Jervois Mining to attend Cobalt Institute Conference in Hong Kong

Jervois Mining Limited (ASX: JRV) (“Jervois” or “the Company”) shall participate in the 2019 Cobalt Institute Annual Conference in Hong Kong this week.

Jervois’ EGM Technical Services, Michael Rodriguez, will attend the conference coordinated by the Cobalt Institute on 15-16 May.

The Cobalt Institute is the leading organization representing the global cobalt industry. The conference is the institute’s major event of the year and is the only conference to bring the global cobalt industry sector together, including producers, consumers, investors, traders and recyclers.

Jervois’ participation at the conference relates to its continued discussions with potential off-take and investment partners for its Nico Young project in New South Wales, Australia, and also follows the Company’s announcements that it will merge with M2 Cobalt Corp. (TSXV:MC) and eCobalt Solutions Inc. (TSX:ECS) to build a global cobalt industry leader. The mergers will give the new Jervois an enhanced Australian, East Africa and US project pipeline that includes the Idaho Cobalt Project, which has the highest combination of cobalt grade and scale in the United States.
