Senex commences Project Atlas drilling

Senex Energy Ltd (Senex, ASX: SXY) has begun drilling at Project Atlas as part of its ~110-well integrated Surat Basin natural gas drilling campaign.

Following the first 10 wells in Senex's campaign at the Roma North development, the Easternwell rig has been moved to Project Atlas where the first well was spudded last night.

Managing Director and CEO Ian Davies said the start of drilling at Project Atlas was an important step in the delivery of new gas volumes to the domestic market.

"Project Atlas is a top-tier asset in a proven and prolific gas-producing area. We have great confidence in this resource, so the spudding of the first well is an exciting milestone that brings us closer to first gas later this calendar year," Mr Davies said.
