Zip debuts on the global stage, with entry into four strategic markets

Zip Co Limited ('Zip') is pleased to announce today that it has entered into an agreement to acquire 100% of the shares in global instalment technology platform, PartPay Limited ('PartPay'), providing exposure to four key geographies – New Zealand, United Kingdom, United States and South Africa.

Zip has concurrently agreed to acquire a direct strategic equity interest in New York based "buy now, pay later" ('BNPL') provider, QuadPay Inc. ('QuadPay').

Auckland headquartered PartPay provides Zip with:

- A portable platform that has been localised to international markets and is easily adaptable to new geographies;
- A significant instalment player in New Zealand (NZ), which includes an integration with NZ's leading retail group, The Warehouse Group; and
- An early-stage, fully operational United Kingdom (UK) subsidiary supported by a local team, which is ready to scale.

PartPay brings strategic relationships

Established in January 2017, PartPay has over 110,000 customers across over 250,000 instalment plans and is integrated into over 1,000 retailers including The Warehouse Group (NZ's leading retail group and including the TheMarket, NZ's newest online marketplace) and Spark (NZ's largest Telco). The NZ business complements Zip's Australian merchant base and aligns strongly with Zip's core strategy of bringing customers and merchants together via a fair and valued payments experience. Like Zip, PartPay has been conducting credit and ID checks from inception.

PartPay's key management team, including founder John O'Sullivan, will remain with the business and join the Zip team. PartPay added its first merchant onto the UK platform in January 2019, and is supported by a solid, local team who have begun to make inroads in this significant market.

For personal use only

PartPay's technology platform has also been successfully deployed into other international markets where, in exchange for its codebase, PartPay secured strategic shareholdings within the following fast growing BNPL providers:

- 8.9% in QuadPay in the United States; and
- 24.7% in Payflex Proprietary Limited ('Payflex') in South Africa.

Launched in January 2018, New York headquartered QuadPay is a leading, high growth, US-based instalment provider. QuadPay enables consumers to pay in installments anywhere, online and in-store.

Launched in September 2018, Johannesburg based Payflex is the first to market within South Africa and with potential for exciting growth across Sub-Saharan Africa.

The PartPay acquisition involves total upfront consideration of NZ$50.8 million (the 'Upfront Consideration') with an earn-out of up to a further NZ$15.0 million based on certain prescribed performance milestones being achieved during the FY20 and FY21 financial years (the 'Earn-out Consideration').

The total maximum consideration of c. NZ$65.8 million will be paid by Zip through the issue of new fully paid ordinary shares in Zip, subject to shareholder approval. The new Zip shares issued as part of the Upfront Consideration will be subject to certain voluntary escrow arrangements. Refer to the Appendix to this release for further information.

Increases stake in QuadPay in the United States

Concurrent to the PartPay acquisition, Zip has also entered into a subscription agreement with QuadPay to invest a further approximately US$11.4 million into QuadPay, which, when combined with PartPay's existing shareholding, will result in Zip maintaining a 15% fully diluted shareholding in QuadPay.

As a strategic shareholder in QuadPay, Zip will have a right to appoint one director to the QuadPay board and priority allocation within further investment rounds. This investment by Zip in QuadPay is not conditional on Zip's acquisition of PartPay.

Alignment of organisational culture and interests

Zip CEO and Managing Director, Larry Diamond, said:

"This transaction marks the beginning of Zip's global expansion story. Whilst we see significant upside in the core Australian business, we feel the timing is opportune to begin investing abroad as we seek to build a global payments business.

"PartPay has proven experience swiftly launching their technology in four different markets, and the potential for many more. There is clear and strong alignment between PartPay's and Zip's philosophy on responsible credit, and we look forward to working with PartPay's highly capable management team as we grow our market share in New Zealand and expand into the United Kingdom."

For personal use only

PartPay's CEO, John O'Sullivan, echoed Zip's enthusiasm:

"We've known the team at Zip for a while, and quickly realised they share our goal of building better and fairer payment alternatives. We are very excited to join the Zip team and contribute to the next stage of their growth and look forward to working closely with our New Zealand merchants and customers to continue to deliver innovative payment solutions."

Timetable and other information

Subject to Zip shareholder approval being obtained at either an extraordinary general meeting or at Zip's 2019 annual general meeting, Zip expects to complete the PartPay transaction by the end of October 2019. Further information about the date of the shareholder meeting to consider the necessary resolutions required to proceed with the PartPay transaction will be provided in due course.

Zip's additional investment in QuadPay is expected to be finalised by no later than 27 September 2019.

A summary of the key transaction terms is included in the Appendix attached to this release. An investor presentation, which explains the transaction, has also been lodged with the ASX.
