MAJOR PROJECT STATUS GRANTED BY THE AUSTRALIAN GOVERNMENT

Highlights

- Major Project Status granted by the Australian Government for the Mackay Potash Project
- Mackay Potash Project formally recognised as a project of national significance

Agrimin Limited (ASX: AMN) (“Agrimin” or “the Company”) announces that the Australian Government has approved Major Project Status for the Mackay Potash Project located near Kiwirrkurra, Western Australia.

In approving this status, the Minister for Industry, Science and Technology, Hon. Karen Andrews MP, has recognised the opportunity for the Mackay Potash Project to grow and diversify the Australian economy, as well as contributing to the economic development of a remote region of Western Australia.

Major Project Status will allow the Mackay Potash Project to receive additional government support. The Minister has approved the status for a period of three years, which is the period that the Company plans to advance the project through its approvals, project funding and construction phases.

Mark Savich, CEO of Agrimin said: “We are delighted to receive this support from the Australian Federal Government as we advance our strategy of becoming the world’s leading seaborne supplier of SOP fertiliser. The world-class Mackay Potash Project will produce a premium quality SOP product and is located on the doorstep of Asia Pacific’s key growth markets.”

“The granting of Major Project Status is an acknowledgement of the Mackay Potash Project as being of strategic significance to Australia, along with producing long-term benefits through a contribution to exports, employment and infrastructure development.”

“We look forward to working with the Major Projects Facilitation Agency who will provide welcomed assistance during our Commonwealth Government approvals process.”
