Dominic Stevens, ASX Managing Director and CEO, said: “The 2019 financial year (FY19) has delivered a number of pleasing outcomes for ASX and our stakeholders. The strong performance of our core businesses underpinned double-digit statutory profit growth, while we have continued to invest in the operation and integrity of our systems and pursued growth opportunities that aim to make business easier for our customers.

“Statutory profit rose 10.5% on last year to $492.0 million, an increase of $46.9 million – or up 12.6% on a like-for-like accounting basis. Each of ASX’s four main businesses grew, as did interest earnings, with the overall performance driven by higher cash and futures markets trading, and an increasing appetite from our customers for technical connections and information services.

“ASX’s diversified business model continues to deliver attractive earnings across different business cycles without compromising our commitment to operating markets of high quality. We have determined a final dividend of 114.3 cents per share, a rise of 4.8%, and we will pay a special dividend of 129.1 cents per share fully franked from the proceeds of the sale of ASX’s shareholding in IRESS.

“We believe the best use for the proceeds of ASX’s sale of its IRESS stake is to return the bulk of the funds to our shareholders and retain a portion to support investments in new and upgraded products, services and infrastructure, which will ultimately benefit the financial market community broadly.”

Mr Stevens continued: “ASX’s expenses rose 9.9%, slightly above guidance, with a higher than expected supervision levy. Capital expenditure was $75.1 million, reflecting ongoing investment in strengthening ASX’s technology capabilities. These projects include the replacement of CHESSE, and the upgrading of our secondary data centre and ASX Net communications network, which connects our data centres to customers in Australia and around the world.

“In FY19, underpinned by strong financial results and investments in system resilience and innovation, ASX took positive steps towards our goal of building an exchange for the future. Our strategy is technology-driven and customer-focused, and based on providing open infrastructure solutions that help our customers create new products and services, improve operational efficiency, and reduce risks and costs.

“ASX recognises that a sustainable future cannot be built on operational and financial performance alone. Hence our work to earn and preserve the confidence of all our stakeholders as a trusted, central and independent party through the evolution of our rules and the integrity of our people and processes.”
