Executive summary

1. The purpose of this paper is to seek comment on a draft Code of Practice for Clearing and Settlement of Cash Equities in Australia (draft Code) by 8 May 2013. ASX is developing the Code of Practice for Clearing and Settlement of Cash Equities in Australia (the Code) in consultation with users of ASX's clearing and settlement services. The Code will provide a framework for an ongoing process of formal engagement with a broad set of users of clearing and settlement services for cash equities.
2. ASX is developing the Code following a decision by the Deputy Prime Minister and Treasurer on 11 February 2013 to defer a decision on any licence application from a central counterparty (CCP) seeking to compete in the Australian cash equity market, thereby retaining the current market structure for the clearing and settlement of cash equities for the next two years. In accordance with the Government's request for the implementation of the Code, ASX has committed to commencing the operation of the Code by 9 August 2013.
3. Developing the Code over the next three months is the beginning of a new process of engagement with customers and other industry stakeholders in relation to the provision of clearing and settlement services for cash equities. As well as developing the Code, ASX is establishing a dedicated section of its website to provide information on its clearing and settlement services for the cash equity market. This section of the website will provide the information that ASX has committed to publish under the Code, together with information on the operational performance of ASX Clear and ASX Settlement.
4. The draft Code articulates ASX's commitment to meaningful engagement with customers and other industry stakeholders on the ongoing development of the clearing and settlement infrastructure for the Australian cash equity market. ASX recognises the importance of engagement with its customers and other industry stakeholders to ensure that the design and functionality of ASX's clearing and settlement infrastructure continues to be world-class, efficient, well-capitalised and well-regulated, and continues to meet users' needs.
5. The draft Code sets out ASX's commitment to:
 - establish an ongoing advisory forum (the Forum) to allow customers and other industry stakeholders to provide user input to the Boards of ASX Clear and ASX Settlement on the core clearing and settlement infrastructure, including CHESSE, for the Australian cash equity market;
 - transparent and non-discriminatory pricing of clearing and settlement services for the Australian cash equity market; and
 - transparent and non-discriminatory terms of access to clearing and settlement services for the Australian cash equity market.
6. These commitments address the principles set out by the Council of Financial Regulators (the Council) in its December 2012 Report to the Deputy Prime Minister and Treasurer.
7. ASX will work in consultation with its customers and other industry stakeholders to finalise the Code over the next few months, prior to submitting the Code to the Council for review in late June 2013.
8. In addition to providing interested parties with the opportunity to make written submissions on the draft Code, ASX will be engaging directly with its customers and other industry stakeholders during April and in the first half of May through a series of bilateral meetings, consultation roundtables and industry briefings. If you would like to arrange a bilateral meeting or participate in a roundtable discussion, you may register your interest here.
9. Industry briefings are scheduled for 17 April 2013 in Sydney and 22 April 2013 in Melbourne. If you are interested in attending one of these industry briefings, you may register your interest here.

Background to the development of the Code

10. On 11 February 2013, ASX publicly committed to developing and implementing a Code within six months. This was in response to the decision by the Deputy Prime Minister and Treasurer to accept in full the recommendations of the Council in relation to competition in clearing Australian cash equities.
11. In the Council's advice to the Deputy Prime Minister and Treasurer and its December 2012 Report 'Competition in Clearing Australian Cash Equities: Conclusions', the Council made the following recommendations:
 - a decision on any licence application from a CCP seeking to compete in the Australian cash equity market should be deferred for two years;
 - ASX should work with industry stakeholders to develop a Code based on a set of principles relating to user input to governance, transparent and non-discriminatory pricing, and access to clearing and settlement services; and
 - at the end of the two years, the Council should carry out a public review of the implementation and effectiveness of the Code, and the ASX's adherence to it. At the same time, the Council would review the prospect of granting a licence to another CCP, or of pursuing other regulatory outcomes¹.
12. The Council's recommendations were based on consultation with a wide group of stakeholders following the release of a Council discussion paper on 'Competition in the Clearing and Settlement of the Australian Cash Equity Market' in June 2012.
13. The feedback the Council received through that consultation process was that while there were a number of stakeholders in favour of competition in clearing in-principle, there was a general concern that the benefits that might be expected from the introduction of competition may not outweigh the associated costs.
14. Many stakeholders were also resistant to further changes to the operating environment given current market conditions, the degree of regulatory change that the industry has recently been subject to and that is currently underway, and the existing pressures on participants to cut costs.
15. The recommendations of the Council, and the arrangements to be put in place under the Code, only apply to the Australian cash equity market and do not apply to clearing and settlement services supporting either exchange-traded or OTC derivative markets or OTC debt markets.

Key elements of the draft Code

16. The draft Code sets out ASX's commitments to:
 - establish the Forum to allow customers and other industry stakeholders to provide user input to the Boards of ASX Clear and ASX Settlement;
 - transparent and non-discriminatory pricing of clearing and settlement services for the Australian cash equity market; and
 - transparent and non-discriminatory terms of access to clearing and settlement services for the Australian cash equity market.
17. With these commitments, ASX is seeking to enhance engagement with users of clearing and settlement services, together with increasing transparency of pricing and access arrangements, and delivering non-discriminatory pricing and access arrangements for the clearing and settlement of Australian cash equities.

Establishment of the Forum

18. The Forum is the key mechanism to be established under the Code to provide user input to the Boards of ASX Clear and ASX Settlement in relation to the ongoing investment in the design, operation and development of core cash equity clearing and settlement infrastructure, including CHES. The Forum will also provide a formal mechanism for the Boards of ASX Clear and ASX Settlement to report to users on their strategic plans and investment decisions on the core clearing and settlement infrastructure for cash equities.
19. ASX will establish the Forum within three months of the commencement of the Code on 9 August 2013.
20. Membership from a wide range of customers and other industry stakeholders will provide the opportunity for the interests of different user groups to be represented in the Forum and will lead to more informed assessments of the implications of any potential changes to the clearing and settlement infrastructure for the cash equity market. The Council's December 2012 Report also sets out an expectation that a broad group of stakeholders (including both ASX's direct customers and end-users) be represented in the Forum.
21. The Forum will comprise around 20 senior representatives drawn from a wide range of users and industry stakeholders, including clearing participants, settlement participants, alternative market operators, custodial services providers, system vendors, share registries, payment system providers, the funds management industry and listed companies. It is proposed that up to 10 members in the Forum will be clearing participants and settlement participants, and that there will be a member each from the Australian Financial Markets Association and the Stockbrokers Association of Australia. The proposed clearing participants and settlement participants initially represented in the Forum are ASX's largest clearing clients, ASX's largest settlement clients, and a mid-tier Australian broker.
22. It is also proposed that there will be a member representing each of the other industry stakeholder groups, and that a non-executive director of the ASX Limited Board and a non-executive director of the Boards of ASX Clear and ASX Settlement will be represented in the Forum. The Council suggested that a non-executive director of the Boards of ASX Clear and ASX Settlement be the Forum Chair. ASX has adopted this suggestion which will enable the input from the Forum to be directly communicated to the Boards of ASX Clear and ASX Settlement.
23. ASX is inviting users to nominate representatives for the Forum. ASX has consulted with the proposed members of the Forum, who have all expressed a willingness to participate. The proposed initial members of the Forum are available here. ASX will appoint members to the Forum based on their skills and level of experience. Members will be appointed for an initial two-year term. It is proposed that a member of the Forum will not be able to appoint a delegate or alternate to attend Forum meetings on their behalf. This is to ensure that the Forum is effective and maintains senior representation.

24. The draft Code provides a mechanism for consultation with the relevant stakeholder group before the expiry of a member's term, or in the event that a member resigns, regarding the appointment of a new member or the reappointment of the member as the case may be. It is envisaged that some members of the Forum will rotate after the initial two-year term to help ensure that the Forum can function as an effective process for providing user input from a wide range of stakeholder groups.
25. It is proposed that the Forum will meet three times a year, with the first meeting scheduled for 2 October 2013. The Forum meetings for 2014 are scheduled to be held on: 2 April; 23 June; and 1 October. To provide input to the Forum, it is proposed that business committee meetings will be held four to six weeks prior to Forum meetings. Technical committees will also be set up on an as needed basis by the Forum. Members of the business and technical committees do not need to be members of the Forum. The business and technical committees will report to the Forum.
26. The Forum will be chaired by a non-executive director of the Boards of ASX Clear and ASX Settlement (Forum Chair). It is proposed that all agendas and meeting minutes will be prepared in consultation with Forum members, and that they will be publicly available on ASX's website.
27. It is proposed that following each meeting of the Forum, a written report setting out the key issues discussed and any recommendations made by the Forum will be prepared by the Forum Chair. The report will be provided to the Boards of ASX Clear and ASX Settlement for discussion at the next meetings of those Boards. The Forum Chair will report back at the next Forum meeting on the outcome of the discussions of the Boards of ASX Clear and ASX Settlement relevant to any recommendations of, and material matters raised by, the Forum. It is also proposed that ASX Clear and ASX Settlement will jointly provide a written response to each report received from the Forum.
28. Section 2 of the draft Code included in Appendix 1 sets out the proposed objectives, membership and operation of the Forum.

Transparent and non-discriminatory pricing

29. The second key element of the draft Code addresses pricing. Section 3 of the draft Code included in Appendix 1 sets out ASX's commitments aimed at increasing the transparency of the pricing of clearing and settlement services for cash equities and demonstrating ASX Clear and ASX Settlement's commitment to non-discriminatory pricing. In addition, it is proposed that ASX will publish financial accounts for the clearing and settlement of cash equities in Australia, and undertake and publish international benchmarking in relation to the scope and pricing of clearing and settlement services offered by ASX Clear and ASX Settlement.
30. In relation to pricing transparency, ASX commits to publishing on the ASX website:
 - clear and accessible fee schedules with brief service descriptions for all clearing and settlement services for cash equities;
 - the terms, conditions and eligibility criteria of any rebates, revenue-sharing arrangements and discounts applicable to each service; and
 - worked examples and other tools to assist users of clearing and settlement services in being able to anticipate the fees that they will have to pay for the use of the services, and to assist users in assessing the cost impacts of any price changes.
31. In relation to non-discriminatory pricing, ASX commits to providing clearing and settlements services on a non-discriminatory basis to all customers and potential users. In relation to transfer pricing, ASX Clear and ASX Settlement commit to charging all users, including ASX-affiliated entities, non-discriminatory pricing for materially equivalent services.
32. In accordance with the expectation set out in the Council's December 2012 Report, ASX has committed in the draft Code to annually publish management accounts in respect of the clearing and settlement of cash equities in Australia by ASX Clear and ASX Settlement at the same time that it reports its full-year results. It is also proposed that the published management accounts will annually be subject to review by an external auditor.

33. The draft Code sets out the high level cost allocation principles which will be used to develop a cost allocation policy that sets out the basis on which revenues and costs will be allocated to the clearing and settlement of Australian cash equities. Furthermore, ASX commits to develop and publish a transfer pricing and cost allocation policy which describes the methodology used for allocating revenue, directly attributable cost, indirect and common shared costs and capital that relate to the clearing and settlement of cash equities in Australia.
34. The first set of management accounts will be published, together with ASX's full-year results, on 22 August 2013.

Transparent and non-discriminatory terms of access

35. The third key element of the draft Code addresses access arrangements for clearing and settlement services. Section 4 of the draft Code sets out proposed commitments in relation to the provision of access to clearing and settlement services.
36. ASX provides standard services on a non-discriminatory basis and reasonable commercial terms to any alternative market operator seeking clearing and settlement arrangements. ASX Clear and ASX Settlement commit to providing these services on a non-discriminatory basis. ASX Clear and ASX Settlement also commit to publishing on the ASX website transparent terms and conditions for participants, alternative market operators facilitating trading of ASX-quoted securities and alternative market operators facilitating trading of securities not listed on ASX who are seeking access to clearing and settlement services.
37. Standard access to clearing and settlement services for trading in CHESSE-eligible ASX-quoted securities executed on an approved market operator is provided under the Trade Acceptance Service (TAS). Presently, access to clearing and settlement arrangements is provided to Chi-X Australia under TAS. Access to settlement services for trading in CHESSE-eligible financial products listed on approved listing market operators is provided under the Settlement Facilitation Service (SFS). Presently, the listing market operators that have been provided access to settlement services under the SFS are the National Stock Exchange of Australia (NSX) and the SIM Venture Securities Exchange (SIM). Asia Pacific Exchange (APX) has also been approved under the ASX Settlement Operating Rules to use settlement services.
38. ASX Clear and ASX Settlement will develop and publish on the ASX website protocols setting out the process and timeframes for responding to access requests for clearing and settlement services. ASX proposes to undertake targeted consultation directly with alternative market operators and approved listing market operators on the access protocols in late April.
39. ASX Clear and ASX Settlement commit to establishing and maintaining appropriate dispute resolution processes in relation to applications for standard access from alternative market operators to clearing and settlement services for cash equities. The draft Code commits ASX to a dispute resolution process for pre-access and post-access disputes.
